CANTERBURY must be seen to be appreciated, although as a substitute it may be as well to read what the New York Courier thinks agont it:—

THE CANTERBURY MUSIC HALL proprietors are making a large fortune rapidly. Hundreds are turned away nightly, from the inability to accommodate them in the house Sam Cowell, J. H. Ogden, the Seagrist Brothers and the very talented company eagaged here, do the business; they draw the crowds, they fill the house, and they amuse the people. Go and see them; but if you want to get near enough to hear or see, go carly.

CANTERBURY agrees with the foregoing in every particular, excepting as regards the fortune. The immense company participating in the rescipts to such an extent as to preclude the possibility of such a thing.

MR SAM COWELL.

In a note addressed to the CANTERBURY on this subject, says:—I do not think it possible for any music hall to pay the sum you propose. Dated Nov. 10.

CANTERBURY was offered, a few days ago, for the loan of Mr. J. H. Ogden, for one night only, one hundred and twenty five dollars, with all other expenses paid.
